

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Sammie Buzzard is a PhD student in the Centre for Polar Observation and Modelling in the University of Reading (UK), where her research focusses on surface melt on Antarctic ice shelves. She is a keen science communicator and is particularly interested in innovative forms of communication and collaborations between science and the arts. <s.c.buzzard@pgr.reading.ac.uk>

Thomas Dick is an independent producer and researcher who is currently completing his PhD at Southern Cross University (Lismore). He has produced two documentary films with communities in Vanuatu and is an Investigator on an Australia Research Council funded project exploring music, mobile phones and justice in Melanesia. <tom.dick@scu.edu.au>

Gordon Dawes was called to the English Bar in 1989 and the Guernsey Bar in 2001. He is a partner and advocate in the litigation department of Mourant Ozannes, a leading offshore financial centre firm. He is the author of Laws of Guernsey (Oxford, 2003, Hart Publishing) and a member of the editorial board of the Jersey and Guernsey Law Review.

Anthony J. Dzik is Professor of Geography at Shawnee State University in Portsmouth, Ohio. His research interests are in regional and physical geography, particularly of the Arctic and the American Great Plains. <tdzik@shawnee.edu>

Liz Giuffre is a Lecturer in Communication at the University of Technology Sydney, as well as an arts and music journalist. <liz.giuffre@uts.edu.au>

Sheila Hallerton formerly worked in town planning in the United Kingdom and is currently a freelance writer based in Thailand. She is currently researching a novel about a fictional island micronation set on the Thames. <shallerton@gmail.com>

Philip Hayward is the editor of Shima and is an adjunct professor at The University of Technology Sydney and at Southern Cross University. He is currently researching a book-length study on the Amami Islands with Professor Sueo Kuwahara from Kagoshima University in Japan. <prshima@gmail.com>

Nicole Leslie is a Geographic Information System technical officer at Southern Cross University (Lismore) who also provides academic supervision and geo-spatial consultancy services and training. Her research interests are human-environment relationships in the physical, natural and social sciences and the humanities; as well as natural hazards and processes/change. <nleslie10@gmail.com>

Robert Garfield has published on African History, written a multi-volume textbook on World History, and a book-length history of São Tomé Island and has presented papers on island history and development. He has taught African and World History at DePaul University, Chicago, for the past forty-five years, where he is currently Associate Professor of History. <rgarfiel@depaul.edu>